Authentic and Proven Technology

Languages are the ultimate form of communication. Prior to forming modern languages, there are many systems of teachings and communications which will be from the mouth of masters.

The schooling system has been oral information and transmission from the words of masters to disciples as a system of gurukul learning. It has been available for limited students in a lifetime from a learned master. So, the knowledge is transferred to the limited persons. After the innovation of the printing press by Johannes Gutenberg in the year 1440 AD, the educational system has been developed in modern form and prior to that many kinds of local and religion language have been used for communicating, most of that has been without a script.

The Master has been transferred the knowledge to subsequent generations and it is known as traditional knowledge and practice. There are 499 traditional technics are in sutras of an ancient tradition and all those are available with heritage Campus out that Disability Normalization is teaching here with DET program.
